

An Ally for Consumers,
A Safeguard for

Financial Analyst/Examiner Positions Open at Your State Insurance Regulator

Consumers rely on their insurance for life's most important moments, and they need to know they can trust their providers to keep their promises, treat them fairly, and run an honest, solvent operation. Similarly, our local, state, and national economies depend on sound oversight of the insurance sector to remain stable, strong, and secure.

As a Financial Analyst or Financial Examiner, your skills will play a critical role on a team dedicated to protecting and assisting consumers, regulating insurers, and working for affordable and accessible coverage. Core duties include (but are certainly not limited to):

State Financial Analyst:

- Analyzing annual and quarterly insurer financial statements, as well as automated ratios and other analytical reports, to identify negative trends

Knowledge, Skill, and Ability:

- Strong communications skills (both written and oral)
- Strong analytical skills, with the ability to aggregate and summarize information from a wide range of available sources
- Ability to think critically and make decisions by applying professional judgment and drawing sound conclusions
